

Political Law

Forman Watkins' political law practice exists to guide clients through the myriad of laws and regulations applicable to state and federal political activity. The firm's political law practice provides services to individual and organizational clients in the following areas:

- Election Law
- Campaign Finance Law
- Ethics in Government Law
- Voting Rights and Redistricting Law

Our political law clients have included:

- State and federal political committees and advocacy groups
- State campaign in support of ballot initiative
- State and federal officeholders
- State and federal candidates and potential candidates

Our attorneys also have experience assisting public entities in the development of redistricting plans and defending such plans when challenged in court.