Malissa Wilson Appointed to Mississippi Bar Ethics Committee

FormanWatkins is pleased to announce that partner Malissa Wilson has been appointed to serve on the Mississippi Bar Ethics Committee. Wilson was appointed by Mississippi Bar President-Elect Kelly Sessoms and will serve a three-year term.

The Ethics Committee is responsible for issuing advisory ethics opinions as authorized by Section 73-3-143(2) of the Mississippi Code and in accordance with the Mississippi Bar Bylaws. As a member of the Committee, Wilson will attend Committee meetings, participate in the Committee's work, and perform duties necessary for the Committee to function effectively.

"The work of the Bar is in large part accomplished through the work of its committees, and I'm honored to have been asked to contribute to the Ethics Committee's important work," Wilson said. "Ensuring that attorneys across Mississippi have access to sound, well-reasoned guidance on professional responsibility is essential to maintaining public trust in our profession, and I look forward to serving alongside my fellow committee members."

Wilson's appointment to the Ethics Committee adds to FormanWatkins' longstanding tradition of active engagement with the Mississippi Bar and the broader legal community.

"Malissa's appointment to the Ethics Committee is a well-deserved recognition of her deep commitment to the highest standards of the legal profession," said Tanya Ellis, Partner at FormanWatkins. "This appointment reflects Malissa's reputation within the Mississippi Bar and the values we strive to uphold as a firm."
