

National Coordinating Counsel

For more than thirty years, FormanWatkins has served as National Coordinating Counsel for a variety of defendants in complex litigation including repetitive injury cases, mass torts, class actions, MDL's. We understand the need to efficiently and effectively manage your litigation. Because facts and circumstances vary and law changes, we initially evaluate and find the best approach for you and your situation. We create a customized management system and style that begins with a dedicated team of attorneys and paralegals whom you will know and they will know you. Applying their knowledge and skills to your unique set of circumstances and problems, we work to reduce risks, create fiscal certainty, avoid disasters, and eliminate surprises in the most efficient way possible.

Most important in ensuring successful management of your litigation is understanding the global perspective of the litigation at hand. With our decades of knowledge and established relationship in the national litigation arena, we understand what is happening both nationally and globally and how it affects your case. Effective strategy is greater than one single case, and we make no decision without considering how it will first affect our client.

We constantly educate ourselves and our clients. This hunger for information keeps us at the forefront of the arena. We provide each of our National Coordinating Counsel clients with a customized, secure website that provides current data, such as filings, dismissals, settlements, trial dates, and other important information, that will allow you to better understand and appreciate the current status of your litigation.

Communication is a key component to our success and it is vital when it comes to our performance as National Coordinating Counsel. The best testament to our ability as National Coordinating Counsel comes from our clients. We encourage prospective clients to talk with our current clients and hear what they have to say about FormanWatkins. Please contact us for references.